

Herald Cameramen Tell Their Story

ON THE ROCKS—Schooner Coos Day piles up on rocks off entrance of San Francisco Bay, near Golden Gate, in dense fog. Crew were all rescued, but vessel will be a total loss.
(International Newsreel)

LION'S SHARE—Miss Nancy L. Nanetti, of Fruitvale, Cal., owns this strange combination. The lion in this photo was reared by the mother of the puppies. She now shows her gratitude by assisting in raising her foster-mother's children.
(International Illustrated News)

EDIBLE NECKLACE—Ornament made of doughnuts comes into popularity at annual food and household show at Los Angeles, with pretty Amo Ingraham as the exhibitor.
(International Newsreel)

COWBOY SCORING BULLSEYES—Art Young, famous big game archer whose arrows have brought down African lions, Kodiak bears and other wild beasts, gives striking demonstration of his skill at Los Angeles Country Club.
(International Illustrated News)

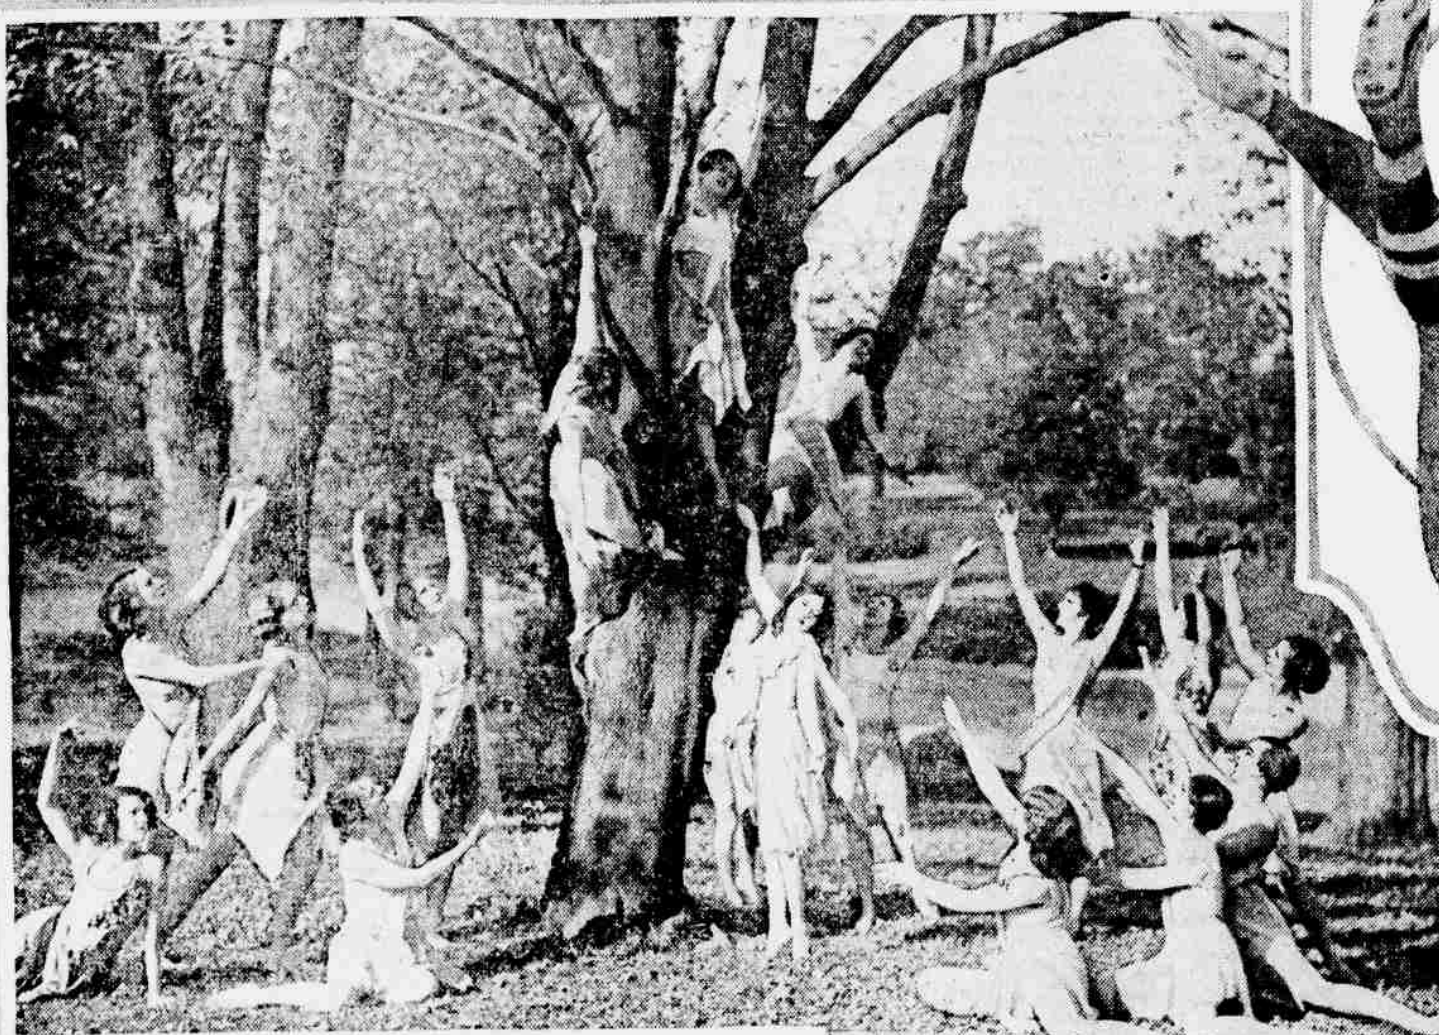

COSTLY TROPHY—Fred Beebe, rodeo manager, displays $10,000 trophy which will be awarded to world's champion cowgirl, while Tad Lucas, of Douglas, Wyo., present champion, looks on it expectantly.
(International Newsreel)

BACK FROM PAREE—The Misses Peggy (top), Billie (center) and Betty Mastbaum (lower), daughters of late Jules Mastbaum, noted Philadelphia philanthropist, return from trip through France.
(International Illustrated News)

READY FOR DEBUT—Mildred Parisette gets up in her role as she prepares for debut as prima donna at the Metropolitan, N. Y., in "Hansel und Gretel."
(International Illustrated News)

BALLET IN SYLVAN SETTING—Members of Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, mostly society girls and college students, practice for operatic ballet, "L'Hiver," in which they are to appear in Academy of Music soon.
(International Illustrated News)

A STAR—Dutch Rieger, star Columbia back, is making strong bid for All-American football honors after being laid up with injuries for a while.
(International Illustrated News)

EX-RULER FLIES—Hsuan Tung, young emperor of Manchu dynasty, takes a cloud trip in U. S. Marine Corps plane at Tientsin, with Lieut. J. B. White as pilot.
(International Newsreel)